

QHSE Policy – Our commitment

Our company, HANSATAUCHER GmbH, has established an integrated management system based on the internationally recognized ISO management standards 9001:2015 and ISO 45001:2018 in order to grant

- the 100% fulfillment of the requirements of all our customers and other relevant interested parties
- the protection of our staff from harm by preventive safety measures and by improving our safety performance continuously
- the protection of the environment (including the prevention of pollution) and to promote our environmental performance by, both, creating awareness within the company, providing the best certified equipment accessible
- a staff, both, competent / trained and motivated
- a continuous improvement of ourselves and our services.

As a traditional and family run company in the diving business it is our natural commitment to be recognized as best-practice organization for Quality, Health, Safety and Environment (QHSE) management.

We are transparent and want to be measured against defined and measurable goals, like zero accidents and incidents, no harm to people and protection of the environment, customer satisfaction and employee satisfaction.

Safety first is our agenda by conducting our work in compliance with all applicable relevant health and safety and legislation. Systematic risk assessments are an integrated part of our work to reduce risks and eliminate hazards. It is our commitment to create working conditions for the prevention of work related injuries and illness.

This policy is mandatory to all women and men working for our company, HANSATAUCHER GmbH.
